A WORD TO FARMERS.

The farmer who sells his tobacco to the Continental Tobacco Company at the present time is not only helping that gigantic and merciless trust to destroy his neighbors and friends, but he is placing in the hands of the trust a weapon which will sooner or later be used upon him.

You who are not in the pool can do yourselves a great service by holding your tobacco. In the very name of liberty itself hold it.

Hold your tobacco for the sake of the poor tenant who is in the pool—hold it for the sake of his needy family, for the sake of his little children, who have in the past been denied educational advantages because they were forced to work from the morning's early dawn till the evening's shadows forced them to leave the tobacco field—worn and worn by the day's drudgery. Hold your tobacco for the sake of the hundreds of homes throughout Kentucky, and as certain as a just God rules above a happy day will dawn for you.

Remember Right always conquers Wrong! The seemingly defeats of today may mean victories for tomorrow.

If you sell your tobacco to the trust you will contribute just that much toward the destruction of an organization, whose aim it is to establish your independence.

Stand by the men who are in the pool! They are your friends; they are your neighbors; they are contending for your rights, for your liberties, as well as for their own rights and liberties.

To those farmers who are in the pool, who are true and tried friends of the organization, we want to make a few suggestions.

The most important things at this time—the most essential things—are cool heads. Don't do any unnecessary talking; don't threaten anything; don't threaten anybody. Keep well within the bounds of law, and we will all witness the fleeting of the clouds in the dazzling light of victory.

A meeting of the Burley District Executive Board will be held at Winchester next Tuesday, and it is believed that this meeting will result in much good. A telegram received yesterday from Winchester states that the graders are now grading Washington county tobacco. As the counties are being taken alphabetically this indicates that the tobacco in all but one county (Woodford) has been graded. When the grading is completed a price can be put upon the tobacco, and many of the Burley district leaders believe the tobacco will be sold.

An American woman, who married a Dutchman named Gottsnuff because of his alleged royal blood, is suing for divorce. Gottsnuff! So did Anna Gould.

Gov. Wilson won't appoint any of his kin to office. But you are not to understand by this that he is afraid they can't all the bill.

DEFEATS! Pretty bad, of course, but not so "excruciating" as you might suppose. If the Monsters ever come your way, and you escape alive, tell 'em they can't do it again, and dare 'em to try it.

We are told that "public confidence" is necessary to make money plentiful. Therefore, the gentleman who neither confidence nor money has in his fix.

THREE YEARS OLD.

The Sun is three years old; and while it has grown no whiskers, it has learned how to "chaw ferbacker" and it feels like it's a man.

During the three years' journey we have met and overcome some obstacles; we have climbed a few high hills, and have glided through some beautiful valleys; we have been pricked by thorns and stung by insects, but, praise the good Lord, we have had the kind words of many friends with which to balm.

To the friends who have been "friends indeed" we are grateful; we will never forget you; and, if the opportunity ever comes our way, we will repay you, and in repaying you we will be made happy.

"THEM ILLITERATES."

Col. Henry Watterson, in a three-column editorial, printed in the Courier-Journal last Saturday, under the head, "illiterates," pays his "disrespects" to the editors of country newspapers. He says a great many "perfectly shocking" things about his country cousins. He goes so far as to call 'em "varmints, and reptiles, and bantams, and woolly roosters." Now, that ain't so! It's a downright mistake, and we believe Mr. Watterson was joking about it. He also calls 'em liars and illiterates. These accusations are within the bounds of reason. The fact is Mr. Watterson stumbled over a few "grammatical bums" in the paragraphs he culled and printed from country newspapers, and for that reason he dubs the editors "illiterates." At first thought it would seem that he had the proof ag'in 'em. But there is a chance for a "misunderstanding" on Mr. Watterson's part. These editors may not have studied the same grammar that Mr. Watterson studied. They may have studied the grammar that Rev. Moses Akin "learned how to speak correctly from." Rev. Akin said his grammar taught him that it was correct to say "I have saw" if you told the truth about it, but that his grammar didn't teach him to say "I seen" when he didn't see.

But notwithstanding that Mr. Watterson "spanked" hard—notwithstanding he may have hit some unnecessary licks, and left some "prints and red spots" upon many of the boys—we all love and respect the great editor; we are glad he is our own, dear Marse Henry, the greatest editor in all the world, one of the few geniuses born every century; one among the millions who can prove with a few strokes of his quill that "the pen is mightier than the sword."

Col. Henry Watterson has hurt the feelings of every country newspaper man in Kentucky.

Caleb Powers and Mrs. Bradley are now on trial for murder. Before spring sets in we are to have Harry Thaw's trial. These trials and tribulations, together with the usual routine—earthquakes, cyclones, conflagrations, a money panic and an approaching Presidential election, make times exciting, and there is danger of a lot of Teddy Bears being skinned to death.

Football players and butchers are slaughtering.

Congress is in session.

A good way to make a fellow "get religion" is to get him to figuring on how long he'll be dead.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT.

On next Wednesday, December 11, at high noon Miss Sadie Ray Mayes will be married to Mr. Everett E. Buster. The marriage will occur at the Presbyterian church in this city and the ceremony will be said by the pastor, Rev. R. E. C. Lawson. Miss Mayes is the charming and pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Young Mayes, and is one of Springfield's most popular young ladies. Mr. Buster is a prosperous young farmer and business man of near Harrodsburg, and is a member of one of Mercer county's most prominent and influential families.

SERIOUSLY BURNED

Was Mrs. George McNabb While Rendering Lard.

On last Monday at noon Mrs. George McNabb, while rendering lard at the home of Mr. S. C. McGill, near town, was seriously burned. She was at work in the lot, near the house, and her clothing caught from the open fire, and was burned entirely from her body before the flames could be extinguished, but the only serious burns she sustained are on the left side and arm. While her suffering is yet very severe Mrs. McNabb is reported better, and she will recover.

In an effort to put the fire out Miss Mattie McGill sustained some very painful burns on both hands.

Successful Meeting.

The series of meetings at the Methodist church here, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Lyon, and Dr. J. W. Simpson, of Taylorville, are being well-attended, and much interest is being manifested. Dr. Simpson is preaching some excellent sermons, and much good is being accomplished. A number of conversions have resulted. The meeting will continue through this week.

Important Notice.

There will be a meeting of the County Local at Pleasant Grove Saturday, Dec. 14. Every member is earnestly requested to be present, as some very important business is to be attended to. WM. NALLY, President.

Caleb powers and his attorneys admit that the assassin fired the fatal shot from the office of the Secretary of State. Col. Jack Chinn, you are exonerated! We congratulate you.

Hon. C. C. McChord has been relieved of much of the sting of defeat. He has been retained by the State to handle the railroad rate cases at a fee of $5,000.

"Old Santa Claus is the bestest man at ever oo did see!"

There are enough stumbling blocks along the pathway of every life to build a city of block houses.

At the point of big guns robbers looted a bank at Clinton, Ill., last week. In this day of enlightenment a bank robbery in this strenuous way is unusual, if not astounding. A determined effort will be made to capture the robbers; rewards will be offered, detectives will scour the country and the culprits will finally be apprehended, tried and sent to the penitentiary. But the bank robbers of Wall Street will continue to pursue the even tenor of their ways, under the protection of the nation's laws; they will continue to loot the vaults of the people in every State in the Union. The highwayman who robs and plunders at the point of a gun is convicted and sent to prison through the laws of our country, but the robber who "loots" through the manipulation of stock exchanges in large cities and brings want and poverty to the homes of countless thousands, is not only not convicted by our laws, but he is encouraged.

MARRIED IN CALIFORNIA

Mr. James H. Edelen Marries a Talented Woman of Berkeley, California.

Mr. James H. Edelen, formerly of this place, but now of Oakland, Cal., was married last Thursday, Thanksgiving day, to Miss Mary Evelyn Schmidt, of Berkeley, Cal. Mr. Edelen is a son of Mr. George Edelen, of near this city, and up until a few years ago made his home at this place. He has been successful in business in California, and in the city of Oakland, where he resides, he is recognized as one of the city's most progressive business men. Mr. Edelen's many Washington county friends extend congratulations.

An Oakland paper says of the bride: "Miss Mary Schmidt is the daughter of Mrs. N. D. Schmidt of Berkeley. She is well known in musical circles around the bay, where she has distinguished herself as a pianist at rare attainments. For many years she conducted a studio in this city. Miss Schmidt is a native daughter, having been born and educated in California. After a brief honeymoon trip the young couple will reside in Fruitvale."

C. C. McCHORD RESIGNS

Office of Railroad Commissioner...Will Represent State In Rate Cases.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 30.—Following his resignation as a member of the State Railroad Commission, C. C. McChord has been employed by Gov. Beekham as counsel for the State in the railroad rate cases now pending. Mr. McChord, who has been a member of the commission for fifteen years and who is cognizant of every detail of the railroads' and shippers' controversies, was recently defeated in his race for re-election. His term would have expired December 10 and it is reported that John E. Newman is to be appointed to serve through the remainder of the term. Mr. McChord is to receive a fee of $5,000 for all services to be rendered until the rate cases are settled.

Important Notice.

Farmers who still have tobacco of 1906 crop in their barns are requested to bring same into the warehouse as soon as it is possible to handle it. It is important that this be done in order to get the samples of all tobacco to Winchester at once.

Notice To Debtors.

Having disposed of my grocery I earnestly request all parties indebted to me to call at once and settle.

MRS. LIZZIE CAMPBELL.

A Fine Boar For Sale.

I will sell one of my herd boars at farmers price. 18 months old. A fine breeder of large uniform litters. I am also offering for sale September farrowed boars. Choice ones. Glits all sold. Come and see them or write J. E. SHELLEY, R. R. 1.

The Paper Trust.

The Glasgow Times says: More than a year ago, The Glasgow Times warned the country newspapers that they were the victims of a conscienceless blank paper trust which, unless checked in its aggressions, would destroy them. It reiterates that warning now. Unless the monopoly of the International Paper Company in the manufacture of newspaper supplies is broken, one-half the country press of Kentucky will be driven out of business in the next two years.

A circular recently issued by one of the paper-mill owners who has since sold to the trust, says: "Behind the consolidations of the print-paper concerns now concluding, stands the International Paper Company with fifty-four mills already bought out, or taken into, the trust. Options are now held on practically all the remaining mills in the pulp section. The International Paper Company, with a capital stock of $188,000,000, has the paper trade in its grip. Within twelve months every print-paper plant in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan will be absorbed in this gigantic combine. The price of white newspaper print will jump to six cents in the coming twelve months."

In the last half-dozen years, blank paper has advanced from $1.45 per hundred to $3.45 per hundred. In the past year, it has advanced fifty per cent. in cost. In addition to this, all material necessary to the publication of a newspaper has largely increased in cost—without exception. Blank paper, ink, composition, fuel, labor and expenses of every character are higher than ever before known.

With his blank paper, formerly selling at $1.45, now marked up to $3.45, and a limit of $6 set by the trust; with every item connected with newspaper publication increased from 25 to 100 per cent., and with the cost of his family life advancing in the same proportion, the publisher of the small country weekly is indeed between the upper and the nether mill-stone. He must either raise his subscription, advertising and job-rate rates, or go out of business. These are the plain alternatives. If this is not done, The Times repeats its assertion that many newspapers will be forced to the wall. If it is done, they run the risk of losing their patronage—small and insufficient at best. In no line of business in all the active walks of life are the trusts striking harder, or with more deadly effect, than at the country newspapers.

Meanwhile, every editor should urge his congressman to aid in the repeal of the tariff on wood-pulp. With pulp, and the timber from which pulp is manufactured, admitted free of duty, the burden will be at least lightened. There is no politics in this. It is a simple fight for existence—a plain matter of living or dying; for, under present conditions, the country press can exist only as the bond-servant of the paper trust.

Edwards-Pinkston.

Miss Effie Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, of Texas, and Mr. Purdon Pinkston, son of Mr. A. C. Pinkston, of DeKalb, Ill., were married Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. Walker of the Mackville Methodist church. The wedding came as a surprise to the many friends of the young people. Friends extend congratulations, and record wishes for many years of happy married life for Mr. and Mrs. Pinkston.

Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of P. C. W. Peterson are directed to present same, properly proved, before me on or before the first day of February, 1908. Will hold my sittings at clerk's office in Springfield, Ky., to receive claims and hear proof on Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

SUDDEN DEATH AT BLINCO

Good Citizen Passes Away As a Result of An Attack of Rheumatism.

The people of the Blinco community were much shocked on Sunday night when it was announced that Mr. Manie Corbett had died suddenly. He had been suffering of inflammatory rheumatism for several months, but his condition was not considered serious. The deceased leaves a wife and five children, who have the sympathy of all in their bereavement. Funeral services were held at St. Rose, after which burial occurred in the St. Rose cemetery. Mr. Corbett was a kind husband, an affectionate father, and a generous friend and neighbor. He will be greatly missed. A half brother, Mr. Victor Corbett, died two weeks ago.

Several young people attended the festival at Holy Cross Thanksgiving. Messrs. Otha and Martin Newton have returned to Louisville, after spending a few days with their parents. Mr. T. Carrio has moved to the farm he recently purchased from the Burks heirs.

Orie Camborn, of Louisville, is spending a few days with his parents here. Miss Lounette Burnett entertained at dinner Misses Agnes Ryan, Bessie Burke, Messrs Dan and Mike Ryan and George Burke.

Mrs. Cattie Corbett is seriously ill of pneumonia.

Mr. Charlie Bratcher has returned to his home in Louisville, after week's stay with relatives here.

DEATH OF GOOD WOMAN.

Mrs. Jane Thompson Died In New Mexico.—Mother of Mrs. Silas Logsdon, Near Town.

Mrs. Jane Thompson, formerly of Washington county, died Nov. 28, 1907, at the home of her nephew, Robert Coulter, of Preston, New Mexico. The deceased was the widow of John M. Thompson, who died twenty-four years ago. She was born and reared in Washington county, being a daughter of T. J. Montgomery. She had a host of friends and relatives in this county who mourn her death. She was sixty-three years old. Three children survive her: Joe A. Thompson, of Texas, Thomas Thompson, of Elmhurst, Cal., and Mrs. Silas Logsdon, of near town.

To the grief-stricken ones The Sun, together with many friends, extends condolence.

Bowling.

The Glen Lily Bowling Team, of this place, and Barkers Kittens, of Lebanon, "hooked together" last night on the local alleys, resulting in a victory of two-out-of-three for the home team. The Lebanon team won the first game by about forty pins. The Springfield team winning the next two by four and sixty-three pins. The contest was witnessed by a good crowd and as the games were close a great deal of enthusiasm was aroused.

The Saxton Glee Club.

On Friday night, December 13, the Saxton Glee Club, assisted by the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, will give a concert at the Court House. An interesting program has been arranged, and the concert promises to be one of the most interesting events of the season.

Admission, 25 and 35 cents.

For Sale.

I have decided to sell my stock farm, consisting of about 350 acres, a good 5 room cottage and all necessary out-buildings. Will sell for $12.00 per acre if sold in the next 30 days.

PULLIUM.

As I have been absent for some time I will try to jot down a few items.

Mr. Edd Foster and family visited Mrs. Foster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Pinkston, last Saturday and Sunday.

Hox killing seems to be the order of the day.

We have had some nice tobacco seasons and the farmers are busy stripping their tobacco.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Scott spent last Sunday with their son, Mr. C. T. Scott, of Scruggsville.

Mrs. Bertha Foster spent several days last week with her sister, Mrs. J. B. Jenkins, who is very ill with pneumonia.

Mr. Willie Goff and wife spent last Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Goff.

Mrs. Lizzie White, who has been sick for a long time, is some better.

Mr. Edd Goff and family will leave some time this week for DeKalb, Ill.

Mrs. John Keeling, who has been sick for some time, is not much better. News is very scarce at this writing.

The Rattler.

Contrary to the general belief, the rattler rarely gives its characteristic note of warning until actually attacked. In fact, the sharp, vibrant ring of its terminal appendage is probably designed more to assist this very sluggish serpent to obtain its food than to sound defiance or warning. In the first place, serpents possess but the most rudimentary traces of auditory apparatus and are practically deaf. The tendency in the sense of hearing being compensated for by an extreme sensitiveness of feeling which makes them aware of the approach of moving objects by the vibration of the ground.

Hunters, treading cautiously upon a soft carpet of moss or leaves to avoid alarming game, will often step close to or over a rattler without disturbing it or receiving warning, and while many snakes are seen and killed by them it is probable that a far greater number are passed by unnoticed. All snakes are timid and would rather run than fight, and the rattler is not inviting certain destruction by advertising its whereabouts in the brush—Francis Metcalf in Outing Magazine.

How to Treat Damp Walls.

To cure damp walls make a varnish of one part of shellac to two parts of naphtha, and cover the damp part thoroughly with it. This varnish has a disagreeable smell, but it soon wears off, and the wall is covered with a coating perfectly impervious to damp. The wall paper can be applied in the usual way when once the wall is dry.

How to Relieve a Nosebleed.

To relieve a nosebleed take a strip of white paper from the edge of a newspaper, four inches long, roll and then flatten between the thumb and finger. Moisten in water, raise the upper lip and place roll firmly on gums above teeth. Pull upper lip down into place. The pressure will relieve the nosebleed at once.

Commissioner's Sale!

Washington Circuit Court, Ky.

J. H. Hayes, etc., Plaintiffs, vs. W. A. Milburn, etc., Defendants, Equity.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Washington Circuit Court, rendered at the October term thereof, 1907, in the above styled cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale on the premises on at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout to the highest and best bidder at public auction, upon a credit of 6, 12 and 18 months the following described tract of land, to-wit:

Situated in Washington county, Ky., on the waters of Glens Creek and bounded as follows: On the North by the lands of J. W. Hays, on the East by the lands of Joseph Hays, the school house and John House, on the South by Washington Catlett's heirs and Jas. L. Graham, on the West by the lands of Allen Cooksey, John M. Milburn and Robert Hays' heirs, containing 150 acres, more or less.

For the purchase price the purchaser or purchasers with approved security or sureties must execute bonds bearing legal interest from date of sale, and paid and having the force and effect of a judgment. A lien will be retained on land for which bond is executed. Bidders will be required to comply promptly with these terms.

Caught The Thief.

Recently in the village of Taharaura, Japan, all the male inhabitants above the age of fifteen years were assembled in front of the local Shinto shrine at the call of the village chief. A thief had been making depredations in the local tobacco plantations, and the chief sought to discover him. Outlines of the feet of all the villagers were taken on sheets of paper, and then these were compared with the tracks left by the thief in the tobacco fields. Nothing resulted from this experiment. The next day the inhabitants were called together again. A great hole was dug in the ground, and a raging charcoal fire was built in it. All persons present were ordered to walk through the fire barefooted. It being declared that no person would be burned except the guilty one. All advanced to undergo the ordeal except one, Shukichi Shibata, a man of evil reputation. He declined to trust his feet to the red-hot coals. Accordingly he was arrested and soon confessed his guilt.

FICTION AND FACT.

The Message in the Story Book and In Real Life.

In a magazine:

"I don't like you any more."

Harold Hoplite looked up at the quaint figure—a boy of six, with a mouth smeared with huckleberry pie. Harold was dumb.

"I don't like you any more."

"Why?"

"Cause you made sister cry."

"Ethel cry? I didn't—I couldn't—make her cry."

"Well, she's crying now when you said nothing when you walked away. Why didn't you say by-by and kiss her when you're going away? I always do."

"I will! Right now!"

And Harold leaped back to make up the lovers' quarrel.

In real life:

"Say, sister gave me a piece of pie to come down and see if you'd gone and if you hadn't to try to get you back past where she was sitting on the porch getting ready to be crying."

"Oh!"—New York American.

The Spleen as Food.

In France and Italy many persons eat the spleen, what we call in French "ratte." I have eaten it myself. Generally from a pig it weighs about eight ounces, and it is situated on the right side of the pig, touching the liver. A spleen from a cow or bull weighs about two pounds, but is a little more spongy than the pig's spleen, which is the best. If some one should start the fashion we would after while pay 75 cents a portion in first class restaurants, especially if some person of mark should start the habit.—Chef Valere Braguehais in Letter to New York Tribune.

How to Make an Opera Bag.

An opera bag always makes a useful Christmas gift and in white or black can be carried with other colors in costumes. A broadened silk, with the pattern outlined in gilt, silver or steel bands, makes a handsome bag, whose top may be gathered to a purse top or over two gilt rods with a ribbon handle and bows.

How to Cure Foot Tired Feet.

People who suffer from tired feet may note that a good deal of their discomfort is caused by the fact that they wear stockings that do not fit. Indeed, the fit of stockings is almost as important as that of shoes, says London Letter. They should have as few seams as possible, as these cause corns. The feet should be bathed at night, and this treatment is an excellent sleep producer. The water should be salted. The feet should be scrubbed all over with nailbrush, which will often prevent the formation of corns, while hard spots on the soles may be reduced with a piece of fine emery paper or pumice stone before the feet are placed in water.

How to Keep Our Wild Fowl.

To keep our wild fowl from further decrease and better to increase their abundance it is vitally necessary so to regulate shooting that there shall always remain each spring a sufficient breeding stock to return to the wilderness "nursery," certainly in no less numbers than the year before, says Country Life. Various restrictive measures which are now in force are none too many and are eminently wise, and necessary, but there are the best of reasons for believing that the thing most emphatically needed at the present time is the absolute stopping of spring shooting in all parts of the country.

How to Prevent Tan.

If you are obliged to be out of doors very much you should secure a good cream and vegetable powder, says the Pittsburgh Press. Each time before venturing out apply a little of the cream and then dust on the powder. In this way the face is well protected, and you will avoid another crop of the freckles and also be able to prevent the skin from becoming tanned. Each night wash the face with warm water and a good mild soap, then rub on the whitening cream. In the morning wash with cold water. You will find that this treatment will bleach your skin as nothing else can.

How to Waterproof Cloth.

To waterproof cloth take of powdered alum and sugar of lead each half an ounce and stir them into a gallon of rain water, and when the mixture is clear pour off the upper liquid. Dip more the cloth for twenty-four hours then dry and press it. The cloth will be uninjured in color and texture and will stand any amount of rain to which you are likely to be exposed.

LONG RUN.

On last Saturday night Pastor W. P. Hatchett visited the local preacher of Beech Grove church and found him busy with his commentaries. Such a brother in a church is a great help. On the following day Bro. Hatchett preached a good sermon to his Beech Grove flock. Subject, "Sin against the Holy Ghost." The preacher said the Holy Ghost was the third person of the Godhead and it was by his influence that the sinner is brought to Christ. If he is rejected or spoken of in an irreverent manner, or his work attributed to satan, the individual in so doing commits blasphemy and rejects the only power that can convict of sin and could not be forgiven in this or the world to come. The union between this church and pastor seems to grow stronger as the days and years go by, but then a good man should be appreciated.

On last Sunday evening Miss Effie Edwards and Mr. Furdon Pinkston, of near Willistown, were united in marriage at the home of the bride, Rev. P. Walker, of Mackville, officiated. The bride is one of our best girls and of a good family and will be greatly missed in our community. The groom is said to be a clever young man of a good family also. We extend congratulations.

Oh my! at the rabbits. They seem to be everywhere. The boys made a slaughter of these little animals Thanksgiving. Two of our nephews came from near Springfield and in five hours killed forty, two other nephews killed thirty-two.

A peddler comes our way every week whose trade is solely rabbits. Two weeks ago he took about 1,000 to Danville that he had bought in our immediate community.

One of our neighbor boys had bagged a bird and rabbit and while getting over a fence his game fell out and the bird flew away and the rabbit ran away.

We recently heard a peddler say there was a local demand for birds in a certain town even among the officials and he could dispose of them at 25c each. Of course, the market is rather uncertain and the trade rather quiet and restricted.

We would advise the boys to trap and snare hares. It is much cheaper than shooting them and more humane and less dangerous and takes less time and the game is in better condition, but our boy, who is rather energetic along this line, hunts them with an old fashion muzzle loading rifle and a shot gun, catches them in steel and stick traps, and hunts them with dogs, and while we write is making some snare triggers and wants us to show him how to set them to-morrow.

The singing that was given at Mr. John Cocanough's Saturday night in honor of Bro. Hatchett was a good one. Mrs. Myrtle Barracks was the organist.

On Wednesday of last week Mr. Harvey Key came home from Hot Springs, Ark., where some two months ago he went for his health. He has been greatly benefited in health and was much pleased with his trip.

Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott spent Saturday night with their aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Cocanough.

Little Miss Katy Best, who has been spending a few days at the home of her grandfather, Mr. R. T. Best, near Texas, has returned home.

Mr. Joep Barracks and wife visited Mr. and Mrs. Lee Station Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Best and daughters, Misses Lizzie and Ili, spent Thursday at Mr. Jimmie Best's.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bottoms visited Mr. George Russell Sunday.

Mr. Marcus Cocanough and family visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cocanough Thursday.

Mrs. Zilpah Staton and Grace Cocanough were in Mackville Friday.

Mrs. Lucinda Blacketer and grandson, Charlie C., visited Mrs. Paralee Cocanough one day last week.

Her Idea of an Ideal Death.

In the London hospital ward was a little girl whose brother had died recently enough to make his sister still a subject of reflected interest. "It was all along of eatin' too much ice cream and ginger cookies," she said to the doctor who was attending her. Then she smiled beatifically and piously. "It was a beautiful death, doctor."

The Thing to Guard Against.
"I am going to be an actress when I grow up," said a girl of six, adding: "Oh, dear, if I just don't forget and be a mother first!"

THE TICKY GROUSE.

He Has Hundreds of Devices For Eluding the Hunter.

The grouse has a hundred tricks of defense. It will lie still until the hunter is within a yard of it, then soar straight upward in his front, towering like a woodcock; again, it will rise forty yards away, and the sound of its wings is the only notice of its presence. It will cover upon a branch under which he passes, and his cap will be not more than a foot below it as he goes, and, though it has seen him approaching, it will remain quiescent in four until his legs are turned. It will rush then, and when he has eluded himself hurriedly around he will catch only a glimpse of a brown broad wing far away.

Wondered and falling in the open, it will be found—if it is found at all—with the telltale speckles of its breast against the trunk of some brown tree, against which its feathers are indistinguishable, and the black ruff about the neck of the male will be laid against the darkest spot of the bark. Often it will double like a fox; often as a man draws near it will spring noiselessly into some spruce and hide until he passes, dropping then to the ground and continuing its feeding; often, too, it will decline to take wing, though unharmed, and will run fast for half a mile—so fast that the most expert woodsman will be unable to keep pace with it. This it will only do on heavy ground and never when snow would betray its tracks.—Outing.

FEAT OF A MACGREGOR.

Wonderful Physical Strength That Was Used to Great Purpose.

Sir William MacGregor was the hero of such an adventure as one expects ordinarily to read about only in fiction of a certain hue.

The steamship Syria, with a lot of Indian coolies on board, struck on a rock about twelve hours from Suva, the capital of Fiji.

Dr. MacGregor, then acting colonial secretary, organized a relief expedition, clambered over a broken mist that was the only path to the emigrants and again and again returned with a man or woman on his back and sometimes a child, held by its clothes between his teeth.

A man of vast physical strength MacGregor wanted it all for his final feat. Down below on the reef was a woman who had fallen overboard, had got at the spirits and was mad with drink. The captain of the ship and a police officer who had gone after her were being swept out to sea. MacGregor slid down a rope, caught the knot of the woman's hair in his teeth, and with his hands seized the two men and dragged them both into safety. He went back to Suva in a borrowed suit of pajamas, having left all his clothes and a good deal of his skin on the coral reef.

Modest, like many heroes, MacGregor left himself out of his own report, and it was from the governor that the queen first heard the whole story.

Words of an Editor.

When a newspaper tells the simple truth about a bad man who is trying to get into a public place where he can steal, the truth is called "attack." If when the same man runs for office the facts of his past career are printed to show the people what they may expect, the editor who prints these facts is abused, and the racial poses as a martyr. When a man turns out wrong, as the editor said he would, if the editor says his prospective career true, the people accuse him of persecuting a man and "kicking him when he is down." Yet if the paper says nothing about bad men who are trying to rob the people they say that the editor is biased off and that he has taken hush money.—Emporia Gazette.

Women As Civic Improvers.

(Miss Pearl Connor in Kentucky Standard.)

Whatever else may or may not be woman's sphere the history of civic improvements, (for at least that portion pertaining to cleaning and beautifying) in the majority of towns is due largely to her organized efforts.

Certainly nothing can be more her prerogative than to beautify, like charity it should begin at home in a most personal manner on herself, where she may legitimately use all the means of nature and art at her command, then extend to the home itself and from there to her own outlook upon the street and finally to the entire town.

Beauty is by no means the utter vanity that some profess to believe. In the first place true beauty is absolutely impossible without cleanliness which is the running mate of healthfulness. Thus we see that the logical outcome of beauty is health. Unless nature herself has blessed in some way the essential of a city by bad air or water, a perfectly clean city is bound to be a fairly healthful one.

Why is there so much tuberculosis in Louisville? Because, as every one knows, it is one of the dirtiest cities in the world. Even the commonest decency ordinance—the one pertaining to spitting on the sidewalks is not enforced. So far as we know there has never been a Woman's Civic League there although some much larger cities have them.

The women of the cities of the west, laboring, as they must, in many instances, under manifold disadvantages such as unmacadamized streets, cut up with heavy wagons, put those of Kentucky towns to shame by their untiring efforts, when we have all the advantages of macadamized streets, shaded sidewalks and all improving material, including labor, much cheaper than they can get them.

Usually the first thing this league does after securing what co-operation they can in the maintenance of clean sidewalks and streets, is to erect a public drinking fountain for horses, and this is a good thing besides being a monument to the cause. No need that it be ornate, pretentious or designed by Ysidore. Be it as simple an arrangement where the thirsty horse may drink, it proclaims in clear voice to the intelligent stranger "There is a Woman's Civic League here."

Where women try to improve the external beauty of a place, or where they do not, it is the duty of the property owners to be public spirited. They should, even at the risk of some personal sacrifice, not sell their property for objectionable purposes and should place as many restrictions about what is to be built thereon or what used for as the exigencies of the case will permit.

How should a man be estimated who will sell his property in the best sections of a town, among respectable people, to persons whom he knows to be an actual menace to the health of the place.

Proctor Knott donated the beautiful grounds of his old home in the suburbs of Lebanon, to that city for a Chautauqua. In doing this he made an irresistible appeal to the enterprise and public spiritedness of the people of his own and adjoining counties.

What finer monument could a man erect to his memory, when he establishes something that through the coming years shall bring to the youths of his neighborhood the inspirations of the brightest minds and most elevating influences of the day? Better to have done this deed and lie in unmarked grave than left it undone and have the finest shaft of marble or stone erected to one's memory.

What a stale, flat and unprofitable place this world would be if no one caught the spirit of him, who wrote not on tablets of stone, but fleshly tablets of the heart, imperishable parchments of the mind.

Judge Thurman, that young lawyer of Springfield, who is so typical a hero among Kentucky's sons, (self made as he is and his success due not to his talents alone but to his standing for right no matter how long the odds were against him) when he stood up before that Chautauqua audience last summer and made his eloquent plea for the Chautauqua cause said: "Put your money into this and at the end of the day you will receive one hundred per cent. on the investment—not in dollars and cents but in the uplift to yourself and children. When I heard that Geo. R. Stuart was to make an address here I phoned home at once for my boy to come over and as I saw him sit in the audience and listen to that great man I felt that the worth of this one lecture to him could not be estimated in dollars."

The above quotation should have been in indirect rather than direct form and consequently single and not double quotation marks, for it is only the gist, as nearly as we can recall it, of this remark for we do not claim to be able to reproduce from memory the strong, virile English that Thurman uses with so much magnetism, on this occasion, that it brought down the tent and incidently pocket books and big subscriptions galore from his large audience for the maintenance of the Chautauqua.

Nay, verily public spiritedness is not dead but sleeping in many places. We Kentuckians must be brought to realize in some way that we are in very great danger of dropping behind in the onward march.

"Oh we have such a literature, such a history, such a reputation for culture, 'We are it' seems to be the prevailing sentiment. True, but you can't get anywhere resting on your oars. Can you not see the possibility of a Chinese situation. As a class the Kentuckians travel less than the people of most any other State. What does that mean? No new ideas, our minds not running streams but stagnant pools—provincialism."

Look at the enterprising men of a town, the public benefactors; are they men who allow themselves to get into a narrow groove and think only of self, as Stuart said in one of his lectures like a machine lever—"down to the office, back to the house—down to the office, back to the house"—or, are they men who get out, even ever so occasionally, and see what the other half are doing.

Why did the Hon. Ben Johnson erect beautiful, substantial buildings in Bardstown costing out of all proportion to the income received from same. Certainly the possession of a degree of public spiritedness. And Mr. John Barber, of Washington county, evinced the same sort of spirit when he built the Walton hotel and a nice little theatre in Springfield. If money thus expended does not pay directly it does indirectly by increasing the value of other properties.

Of course no one would deem it just to expect those unable to do so to do these magnificent things. A poor widow or a man with a large family that it pushes him to support can not afford to sacrifice property for the public good. In such instances it is simple fairness for the town or community to make good his investment if they desire to remove property that is a public nuisance. He may show that he has caught the esprit de corps by being inclined to accept a just price and not cling obstinately to a cancerous sore.

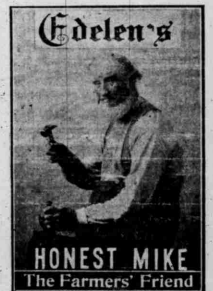

Certainly no one who imperils the health and lives of little children by refusing to remove nuisances that contaminate the atmosphere or shuts out the sunlight from their homes is deserving the respect of right thinking people.

Every unselfish deed receives its reward if not in dollars and cents in things that are of infinitely more value.

How can we consider ourselves a progressive people when there are towns in other States much smaller than Bardstown that have had good graded schools in handsome buildings for years. We are just beginning to get them in our small towns and then sometimes it is a fight to a finish to get them.

As for the question of a lot on which to build one, there should never be any such question in any town. When the dramatic moment arrives—or without waiting its arrival—from all quarters of the place should come property owners willing to purchase or sell one at a low price; because, if for no other reason, they would rather look out on a handsome, tiled structure, surrounded by a beautiful campus, than gaze on an empty cow pasture that resembles neither a pastoral scene nor a park.

A man in a southwestern town recently sold a lot at what seems a fabulous price to a Kentuckian, and then his contract with the purchaser called for the erection of a hotel costing up in the millions. Thus his offer property in the town was greatly increased in value.

Public spiritedness does not mean self denial always. In the long run, like all good things, it usually means measure for measure—heaped up, running over.

And the motif of this—for fear our art has not been sufficient to reveal it—is that a Civic League Society may appear fully developed in Bardstown any day. Just how organized or under what auspices we are not informed. There has never been one yet anywhere that was not composed of the representative women of the place.

This hopes to forewarn that you may be forearmed, ready at a moment's notice to cut out the sins of your potato patch, barn or pig pen that they may be remembered against you no more forever.

Be ye therefore ready, for ye know not the day when the prize for the best kept lawn shall be offered, or the Gutterhouse square cleaned up, or the gutters be flooded with water, or the horse be drinking at the fountain, or your purse be running over from increased valuations.
